once upon a time, in a small town, a little girl named lily found a lost puppy in the park. she took it home and gave it some food and water. then, she decided to make posters to help find the puppy's owner.

she wrote "Lost Puppy" in big letters at the top of the poster. Below, she wrote a description of the puppy: "small, brown fur, floppy ears." she added her phone number at the bottom so people could call if they had any information.

the next day, lily received a call from someone who had seen the poster. they said they knew the puppy's owner and would help reunite them. lily was overjoyed to hear the news!

soon, the puppy was safely back with its owner, and lily felt happy knowing she had helped reunite them.
